SECTION A – PROGRAM OVERVIEW

The Cycling Canada National Team Program is designed to contribute to Cycling Canada’s mission: “To Inspire Canadians to Cycle.”

International competition opportunities are the foundation of any national team program. They are an important motivator for athletes who hope to excel on the world stage. A well-designed national team program also creates a positive environment in which the athletes can learn as much as possible from the experience. The outcome should be well-rounded competitors with the life skills to excel in their future careers as cyclists and beyond.

The Canadian National Team program strives to achieve this through well-run programming supported by professional staff who will help the athletes grow their skills and perform to their potential.

Canada has a rich history of junior track success. More important, many of these athletes used their time as juniors as a steppingstone towards success at the elite level in track or in another cycling discipline.

The Junior Track World Championships selection process is intended to build a team of athletes who are competitive enough to capitalize on the personal and athletic development opportunity of competing on the world stage.
